

Kid-Friendly Foods (provided by Best Fun Inc.)

There are some foods that are hits with just about all kids. To be on the safe side include at least some of these in your menu.

- snack mix
- carrots and ranch dressing
- cheese - cheese cubes and especially string cheese
- chow mein noodles
- cinnamon buns
- cookies
- crackers
- crescent rolls - jam, cheese, chocolate in side for special treat
- finger sandwiches (make sandwich with peanut butter or cheese spreads, trim crusts and cut into 4 squares or triangles)
- fortune cookies
- floats - ice-cream with root beer, cola or orange soda (buy straws)
- french fries
- fruit - grapes, strawberries, kabobs, raisins
- fruit leathers/roll-ups
- goldfish crackers
- green beans
- hummus (garbanzo bean dip) with pita bread
- ice-cream - cones, sundaes (syrup, whip cream, cherries, sprinkles, candy pieces) - buy little prepackaged ice-cream cups or ice-cream bars or sandwiches if you want to avoid the mess of scooping out ice-cream
- juice - freeze bright juice in ice cube trays and serve with clear soda or juice. If you're concerned about spills, buy light colored drinks (apple juice or lemon lime soda. Fill cups half full for younger children.

- macaroni & cheese
- nachos
- nuts
- olives
- pancakes
- pasta - spaghetti and other fun shaped pastas (bow ties, bunnies, etc.) - caution some kids don't like tomato sauce, so have butter and cheese as an option
- peanuts
- peas
- pizza - pita, English muffin, if ordering from pizza parlor, order largest size you can use (best value) and ask them to cut it "party style" (small diamonds or squares) to avoid slices that are too big and hard to handle
- popcorn - Jiffy Pop is especially fun or a topping buffet with taco seasoning, Parmesan cheese, Italian herbs, and cinnamon sugar
- popsicles
- potatoes - baked, mashed
- pretzels - home baked
- sandwiches - open face, peanut butter, cream cheese, shaped, rolled
- sherbet - some kids just love this stuff, especially the rainbow kind, make float with clear soda
- tater tots
